The flour produced at Caldwell's Mill is good quality stoneground flour which is available in 1kg, 1.5 kg and 3 kg bags as standard. The largest bags are 25 kg. The mill shop is open daily between 10am and 5pm and the point of sale is at the end of the Mill buildings.

The mill is a listed building and it operates a roller mill which was built in 1874 by John Cauldwell. In 1887 the water wheel was replaced by a water turbine engine. This system was improved and the present turbine produces electricity to drive the mill more efficiently.

Guided tours of the mill put it into its historical context and there is a small charge for the tours.

I compulsively buy flour from this mill on a frequent but irregular basis as I am passing by, and have found the quality to be excellent. There are lots of varieties of flour to choose from and the staff are very helpful at all times.
