Letheringsett Mill

Riverside Road, Letheringsett, Holt, Norfolk NR25 7YD

The brick built watermill at Letheringsett was built in 1802. The mill was renovated in 1987 and is used primarily as a spelt wheat mill, producing specialist flour. This mill has a hybrid wheel running breast shot in good water flow and changing to undershot when water levels are low.

The mill had 2 new stones in 2008 and now 2 of the 4 millstones are working and producing stoneground wheat and spelt flour.

I have not yet visited this mill or sampled the flour, but by all accounts it is a fine product.
