Water Mills

Shugborough Mill

Shugborough Farm Mill, Shugborough Estate, Stafford, ST17 0XB

This Georgian watermill was built in 1805 with a breast-shot wheel and two grinding stones. The right stone is Derbyshire grit-stone and it is used to produce wholegrain flour on a regular basis to supply the shop and store on the Shugborough estate.

The flour produced is an excellent cold milled product with its own unique qualities. It bakes very well and produces tasty and wholesome bread and scones. When I last purchased their flour it came with a recipe card and a smile.

National Trust members should note that the farm and museum are leased to Staffordshire County Council and a charge is made to visit the farm and mill. There are regular demonstrations by staff and volunteers in costume and in period. Flour is available at the farm and also at the National Trust Shop.
